Busan International Performing Arts Market (BPAM) is a festival-style performing arts market, focusing on driving outbound sales through promotion and marketing for domestic and international artists, also enhancing social values through philanthropy for the citizens.

This year's inaugural slogan for BPAM is “A New of Performing Arts”, showcasing around 100 domestic and international performing arts productions, encompassing all genres; including theater, dance, music, magic, circus and more. In addition to that, domestic and international works in collaboration with existing festivals and markets will provide opportunities and useful information for industry experts, new and emerging artistic groups, and citizens alike.
